RAIL TERMINAL FOR RICHMOND

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Why do women, who drive green roadsters always stick to the middle of the highway while taking a curve on a hilly road?

And why is it that some drivers will spurt their cars to 50 miles an hour to pass a car, then settle back to a slower speed to let the car they passed pass them?

It used to be that trucks were a nuisance on the highway. Some of them still are.

But then there are other trucks of the latest model that maintain a passenger car speed at all times.

There is one feature of driving around Richmond that is rather uncomfortable at times.

That is the heavy winds that sweep the highway.

When one is driving a light car it is a struggle to keep it on the highway.

And then there are the milk truck drivers who are either too lazy or too forgetful to hold out their hand while making a turn.

When America drives, it's the most selfish nation in the world.

On the highway, each driver thinks the laws were made for the other person and that he can do just as he pleases.

A striking example of this was shown during the world war.

American army motor truck traffic behind the lines was a puzzle to foreign observers.

In fact, Clemenceau was highly indignant, declaring that the American army could not handle traffic.

But the army heads solved the problem. At cross roads they erected signs saying: "Take your time, buddy, give the other fellow a break," or words to that effect.

As a result the snails were reduced to a minimum for the drivers' sense of fair play had been appealed to and he responded.

FLIER ENDS NON-STOP HOP

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—UP—Col. Roberto Fierro today completed the first non-stop flight between New York City and Mexico City.

The big, white Lockheed Sirius monoplane, similar in design to that used recently by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, swung over Valbuena flying field at 4:40 p. m., and finally came to a safe landing at 5:05 p. m.

Fierro, whose air accomplishments of the past few years have made him a national idol, accomplished the feat that Mexican airmen have been trying to accomplish for more than a year—to equal or better the good will flight of Lindbergh in 1927—that of a non-stop flight from Washington to Mexico City.

Captain Emilio Carranza, who had been termed the Lindbergh of Mexico, was killed when he attempted the flight which Fierro accomplished today.

Dr. Cedric Taylor, who formerly conducted dental offices in Richmond and has been practicing in Stockton the past three years, has returned to this city and has opened offices at 818 Macdonald avenue.

SLAYER WILL RETURN TO 'HOME'

NEW YORK, June 21.—UP—The "mysterious maniacal '3-X'" "the man behind the gun" who claimed he brought death to two men, killed as they kept love trysts in lonely roads in Queensborough, announced today that he was a secret agent of "The Red Diamond of Russia," whose mission of recovering international documents had been accomplished. He asserted that he was flying back to Russia. He said his errand of murder was ended and that other "victims" on his list had been "pardoned."

"Quiet your people and tell them 3-X is no more," the killer said in what he termed his last letter to the New York Journal, in which he had previously announced the slaying of the two men whose bodies were found after receipt of his communication. The handwriting of today's letter apparently tallied with that of the earlier notes.

To the police, however, "3-X" is still a being whose presence is very near—a man whose insane cunning has brought terror to a large area of the city.

Mission Ended. "My mission is ended," the gunman wrote, but the police, after clearing three suspects picked up here and in Philadelphia and in Newark, sent out added hundreds of patrolmen and detectives, fearful the slayer may have only tried to lead them on.

Meantime, a 15-year old boy who was arrested in Boston after shooting a pawnbroker, an attempted holdup, declared he was the mysterious "3-X" and tried to commit suicide when placed in jail. "I am the mysterious maniac wanted in New York," the youth told skeptical officers. "You've got me now."

He identified himself as Frank J. Page.

Two Arrested On Rum Charge

Antone Rose, 239 Seventeenth street, charged with possession of liquor, reckless driving and speeding, was released on receipt of $125 from the El Cerrito city jail yesterday, following his arrest the night before.

John Hendrickson, of Berkeley, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, is being held in the El Cerrito jail in lieu of $200.

Both men were arrested by Traffic Officer Arthur Peralta. According to police reports Rose was speeding down San Pablo avenue, and when chased by Peralta attempted to escape arrest. He was finally caught in Berkeley.

Powder Found In Stolen Car

MARTINEZ, June 21.—Local officers were today mystified as to the intended use of four sticks of dynamite, found in a stolen car near Danville last night.

Oakland authorities informed county officials the stolen car was the property of Leonard Miller of Oakland.

The explosive was found in a side pocket of the car beside the driver's seat.

Seeks Post

H. STEARNS SEEKS POST OF CONSTABLE

Henry M. (Hank) Stearns of 801 Twenty-third street, has entered the race for constable of the fifteenth township, which includes the boundaries of the city of Richmond and has become an active contender in the fight.

Stearns has been a resident and taxpayer of the county or the past twenty years, and for the past seven years has resided in this city where he has been engaged in the contracting and building business.

The candidate is a Spanish War veteran, a member of Admiral Dewey camp, and is also senior vice of the United Veterans of the Republic. Stearns is also a member of the Masonic fraternity.

Stearns is not only very active in the affairs of the veterans, but in civic affairs as well.

In speaking of his candidacy last evening, he stated that many people were rallying to his support, which was very pleasing to him. "It is my intention," said Stearns, "to make a house to house canvass of the township and ask the voters for their support."

MOB MEN WILL FACE TRIAL

DALLAS, Tex., June 21.—UP—With prosecutors avowing they will invoke the law against mob rule, preparations were made today for the arraignment Monday of 14 Grayson county men, indicted in connection with the lynching of George Hughes, negro, and the burning of the courthouse at Sherman on May 9, last.

Nine of the 14 men are in the Dallas county jail and five have made bonds of $5000 each. The cases were brought here on a change of venue. Those under indictment are Alvin Morgan, Cleo Wolfe, C. E. Briggs, Jeff Jones, Jim May, Bill Sofey, Horace Reynolds, Jimmie Arnold, Leslie Cole and J. B. McCastland, all of Sherman; Roy Allen, Web Purden, Leonard O'Neal and Jess Roper, all of Van Alstyne.

Assistant Attorney General W. A. Wade, whom Governor Dan Moody sent to Sherman during the disturbances May 9 and 10, will assist District Attorney William McGraw of Dallas county in the prosecutions.

The burning of the court house and a subsequent reign of terror in the negro district of Sherman attracted wide attention. National Guardsmen sent to Sherman by Governor Moody to quell the riot were fired on. The negro, under indictment for assaulting a white woman, was burned to death in the court house by angry mob members.

FAMILY OF 5 SLAIN BY MADMAN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 21.—UP—Raymond Spang, a madman, just released from a sanitarium, took his wife and four children to the top of a tall cliff near New Haven today and threw them to their deaths.

He followed them in a final leap, while horrified spectators at the bottom of the precipice and firemen at the top stood by, unable to intervene.

The homicidal maniac had been released last night from a sanitarium. He gathered his family—two boys, two girls and his wife—and marshalled them for a picnic in the country in celebration of his release.

The cunning of derangement gave the family no inkling of the impending tragedy. Spang apparently was normal as he led them through the streets of Westville, suburb of New Haven, and started to climb up the summit of West Rock, one of the beauty spots of Connecticut.

The long winding paths lead to the top of a tall cliff, from which the countryside for miles is visible.

Apparently he caught his wife, Gertrude, at a moment when she was at the edge of the dizzy precipice. Others on top of the plateau said they saw him kick her headlong over the brink.

See Murder.

Robert Cahill and four companions were witnesses of the start of the tragedy. Too far off to interfere, they saw Spang, as his wife's body turned over in her fall, turn to the nearest of the paralyzed children, pick the child up in his arms and hurl the body over the precipice.

He moved so swiftly that the others were unable to run away.

One by one their helpless forms were picked up and tossed over the edge. Helen, the oldest, who (Continued on page 2)

Y CAMPERS RETURN TO RICHMOND FROM OUTING

By JAMES SMITH. Spring beds and strawberry shortcake!

Ah, heart's delight!

After two weeks of "roughing it" in the woods and hills of the Mendocino county country, more than 30 Richmond Y. M. C. A. boys returned to Richmond last night, tanned, tired and happy. They have again exchanged the joys of sleeping under the stars for the joys of civilization.

Richmond's Y. M. C. A. camp commenced two weeks ago under the direction of Reynold Carlson, Richmond Y. M. C. A. director. The camp was situated on the Russian river, near Hopland. A safe swimming hole, rolling wooded hills, a steep mountain, and tradition haunted landmarks, served to make the camp site a paradise for boys.

Program Held.

Swimming, hiking and athletics occupied the greater part of the campers' program. A strenuous hike to the top of Mount Duncan, was the main event in which the older boys were concerned. Two treasure hunts were also outstanding events. The treasure hunt held for the younger boys, was won by Blair Spires, while Louis Ball was victorious in the event for the older campers.

Special instruction was also held in first aid, nature study and archery, under the direction of Reynold Carlson and E. G. Harlow.

Program Told.

Neither the service nor devotional part of camp life was neglected in Camp Pioneer. A large part of each morning was occupied by wood chopping and other duties. A devotional period was also observed each morning by the four tents, under the direction of their respective leaders. E. G. Harlow directed the devotional activities in camp.

The leaders in this year's camp were: Stanley Paulsen, Ralph Shallenberger, Cecil Bowman, Willie Hillier, Bill Fowel and Jimmie Smith. Camp athletics were directed by Bill Black.

Camp Pioneer of 1930 was unofficially concluded Friday evening at the nightly camp fire.

Every camper said a few words concerning his experience of the past two weeks, while Reynold Carlson, director, and Harlow, devotional director, both delivered short addresses on the aim of the Y. M. C. A. camp-character building.

Final awards were also made at

Friday night's camp fire.

White triangles were presented to Louis Ball and Jimmie Smith. This award is presented to deserving red raggers. The red rag is the second to the highest step in the rag ladder, and signifies full participation in camp activities. The white rag, the highest Y. M. C. A. camp honor, is awarded to men who have given long, unselfish service to the cause of the "Y" camps.

A brown triangle was received by Jack McKune. This award is presented to boys who deserve to receive the brown rag, second highest award, but who are not yet 14.

A Camp Pioneer cap was given to Edgar Farrow, young camper, who was not yet old enough to receive the first award, the blue rag.

The campers arrived in Richmond yesterday afternoon, after breaking camp in the morning. Tents were lowered Friday night and the last night of camp was spent under the stars.

G. N. RAILWAY WILL LOCATE IN CITY

With the granting of a permit to the Great Northern railway to link the gap between Klamath Falls and Keddle, Richmond is assured of another transcontinental railroad and terminal.

Location of a terminal in Richmond, was indicated when it was learned that the Great Northern and the Santa Fe railroad are entering into a working agreement.

This means that the Great Northern will connect with the Santa Fe line near Bay Point and will use the Santa Fe tracks to enter Richmond.

Right Of Ways.

The Santa Fe company has been acquiring title to a number of lots that will give it a clear right of way from its Oakland-Richmond line to the Berkeley waterfront property at the foot of Fourteenth street.

The Great Northern railway is known to be owners of this property where recently a large $10,000 steel fence was erected.

The property enclosed by the fence includes 425 acres which will be filled in. This will make an exceptionally good site for a large terminal that will take care of the needs of the Great Northern.

Much Property.

The Hill interests are known to own more than 5000 acres of land that lies between Richmond and the Key mole on the waterfront.

As the business increases this land will be improved and will be used for location of huge new industries here.

It is understood that the Great Northern will build its line to connect with the Sacramento Short Line, which is owned by the Western Pacific.

Connect At Bay Point.

The Short Line is connected with the Santa Fe line at Bay Point. Here the Great Northern will connect with the Santa Fe line and will come directly to Richmond via this route.

It has been known for some time that the Hill interests owned more than 1000 acres of Richmond waterfront. (Continued on page 2)

OFFICIALS HELD ON RUM COUNT

COUR D'ALENE, Ida., June 21.—UP—Thirty three residents of Wallace Idaho, including city and county officers, business men, gambling houses and brothel keepers and inmates, were convicted of charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law by a jury in federal court here today.

Judge John H. McNary of Oregon, who heard the cases announced he would pass sentence Monday.

The evidence showed that the city officials allowed the gambling, liquor and brothel rackets to flourish and took the graft they received from the joints to enrich the city coffers.

The money was accounted for on the town books as "traffic fines," and "park rental."

Among those convicted were: Herman J. Rossi, mayor of Wallace, W. H. Herriek, former mayor; Chief of Police W. J. Bailey, and R. E. Weniger, former sheriff of Shoshone county.

Weniger was previously convicted of a similar charge along with a number of officials and business men of the town of Mullan, near Wallace.

COLLEGE GOLF PLAY STARTS MONDAY

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 21.—UP—The vanguard of 103 collegiate golfers from 23 universities and colleges throughout the country, arrived in Pittsburgh today to await the start next Monday of the National Intercollegiate Golf championship which will be played over the historic Oakmont country club course.

Many of the college linksmen played practice rounds today to accustom themselves to the links where they hope to gain the title relinquished by Tommy Aycock of Yale, who graduated after he won the championship last year.

With Aycock out, Marshall Forrest, a Yale school mate of Aycock, ruled a slight favorite for the 1930 championship by reason of his showing in the 1929 title tournament. He lost to Aycock in the finals at Deal, N. J. by 5 and 4.

The intercollegiate championship will be decided during the 36 hole qualifying test Monday and Tuesday. The best total of individual medal scores will determine the team championship.

Thirty-two players will qualify for the championship flight. The first and second rounds of match play, on Wednesday, will be of 18 holes each. The quarter, semi and finals will be 36 holes each.

Colleges represented include Alabama, Ashland, Brown, Beal, Dartmouth, Geneva, Harvard, Holy Cross, Illinois, Loyola, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rice, St. Xavier, Southern California, Swarthmore, Texas, Williams and Yale.

was 12 and the strongest, probably went first. The others were Lorraine, 7; Raymond, 5; and Baby Donald, 3.

As the last child went down the cliff, Spang saw that the body of his wife had caught on a crag part way down.

Crowd Joins

While a growing crowd of spectators paused around the foot of the cliff, Spang started to climb down towards his wife's body, apparently with the intention of dislodging it and throwing it the rest of the way.

It took him along time to let himself down over the rocky face of the cliff, and by the time he had come within 50 feet of the body, a fireman and others had reached the top, hoping to intervene.

William Hague, who had arrived at the top with a shotgun, fired four shots at the madman in the hope that his wife was still alive and he could scare Spang off. The shots went wild, one burst, almost hitting a policeman who had started down the dangerous climb after Spang.

But Spang was unable to reach his wife's body. He took refuge on a narrow ledge about 250 feet from the bottom.

A fireman, William Barube, was lowered from the top on a rope toward the ledge. Spang shouted to the fireman to halt or he would leap.

Those at the top, in response to shouted instructions from Barube, ceased lowering and the fireman hung suspended a dozen feet from the mad man's perch. On the ledge, Spang paced back and forth, muttering and talking to himself.

Barube tried to reason with Spang, not completely believing his senses, was able to answer questions and said he was a friend of Spang of Ahsonia.

For 15 dramatic minutes the struggle of reason against madness went on. Spang had croaked on his ledge, meditating the deed. Slowly he took off one shoe. Then he tackled the other but the knotted and he gave up the tempt.

Leaps To Death

Then, poised himself while spectators looked on fascinated, he jumped to death.

All the family except Raymond were dead when picked up at various points along the face of the cliff. Raymond still breathed, died an hour later in a hospital.

Spang had been taken to a hospital after a long period of unemployment. He was a veteran of World War and was discharged yesterday from a United States Veterans hospital in New York.

Corey Nine To Meet Odd Fellows For Local Title

An active afternoon is anticipated today when the Odd Fellows nine tangles with the Corey Garage team on the San Pablo diamond at 2:30.

The handwriting on the notes received in Philadelphia has not been established as being the same as that on the letters to the New York paper.

In the letter in which the maniac said his death dealing mission had been accomplished, he paid tribute to the courage of the women who were with his victims, taunted the police and said he had been a German army officer, but aligning himself with the "Red Diamond" world wide organization, which he pictured as a foe of the Soviets. Presence of German idioms in his letter lent some credence to his statement he was a former German officer.

Killings Explained

Explaining the killings, the letter continued:

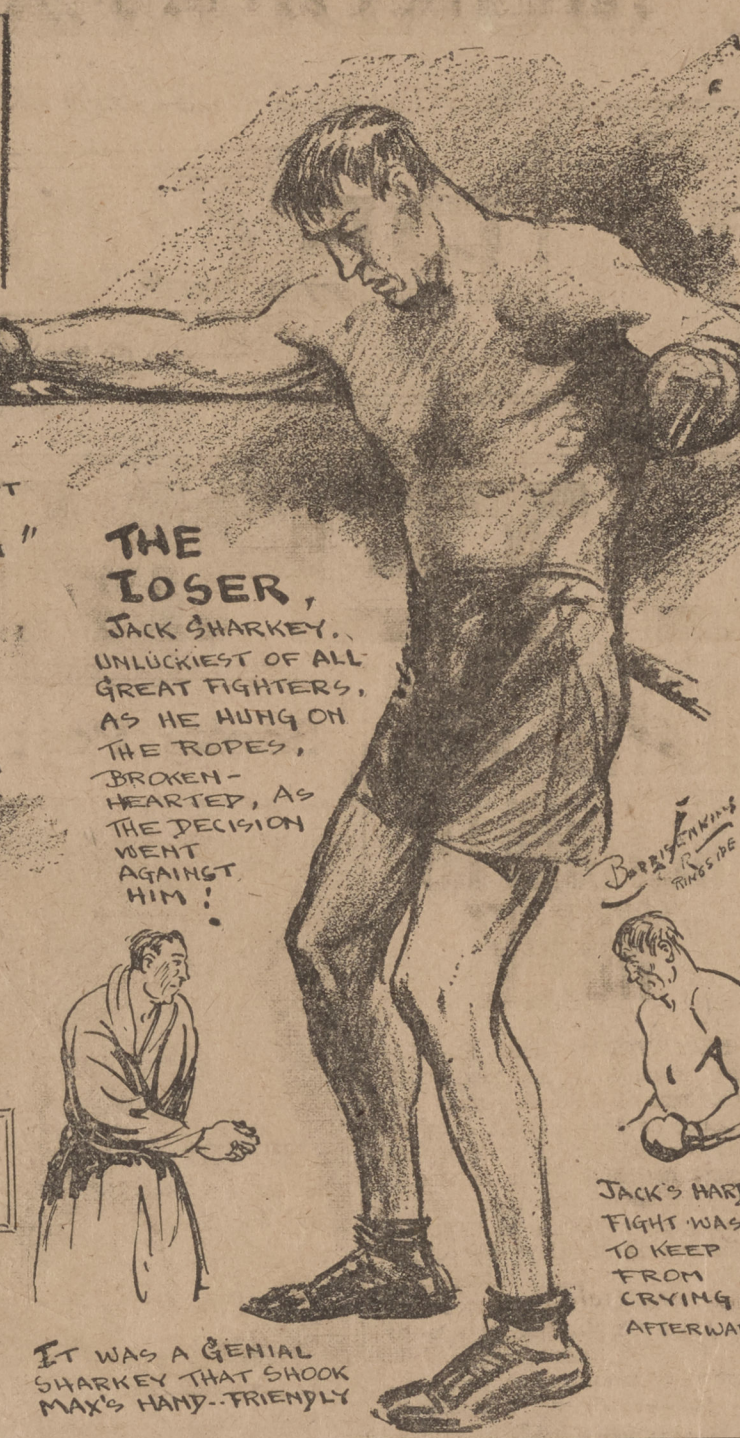

"Anyone breaking it, (The Red Diamond) rules, is marked for death. These men (the victims) were dismissed from the order for treason. They were among our friends, but came in contact with a gang of blackmailers and a drug ring and turned against us. One of them stole the documents mentioned and they tried to use them for blackmailing our men. . . .

"Have you heard a plane? It was a monoplane, small, very fast. The plane circled twice over CP flushing bay side, then went away. If you did, then you will know I was there."

"We are not maniacs or bandits or robbers — robbery never was the motive, and we do not belong to any dope ring. This is final.

"You know what we want you to do. Quiet your people and tell them 3-X is no more."

front land—but no one knew just what purpose it was for.

But with the granting of the permit to the Great Northern and the Western Pacific to enter California, the mystery has been solved. CONSTRUCTION TO BE STARTED SOON

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—UP—The victorious Great Northern railway and its southern ally, the Western Pacific, winner of an epic battle that had its inception more than a generation ago over permission to extend to California, today began active construction plans.

Permission was granted the two lines yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission to expend $14,000,000 in a connecting link to give the Great Northern direct access to California via Oregon.

Today J. W. Williams, chief engineer of the Western Pacific, requested permission of the city of San Francisco to lay main line track across the Mills Field airport property several miles south. City Engineer M. O'Shaughnessy indicated that the request would be granted.

Supplies Ready

Meantime reports from central Oregon and northern California, along the survey of the 200-mile connecting link that is to be built, asserted the building supplies were already on hand and that engineers were arriving.

Construction will start within 30 days, according to President H. M. Adams of the Western Pacific and Great Northern transcontinental trains will operate through from the midwest to California by the end of next year.

The epic fight for permission to enter California had its inception in the days of Hill and Harriman. The Great Northern's efforts to enter the state were vigorously resisted by the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and their allies.

Barrier Broken

Two years ago the Great Northern edged its way into the front line trenches by obtaining permission to build from Bend in central Oregon, to Klamath Falls on the Oregon-California border. Klamath is on the Portland-San Francisco main line of the Southern Pacific.

Now the barrier has been broken and the northern transcontinental has permission to cross the state line, building 88 miles to Beiber, Cal. Simultaneously the Western Pacific is to build 112 miles north from Keddie, Cal., on its San Francisco-Salt Lake main line, to Beiber.

The Western Pacific is also to extend directly into San Francisco from its present bay-district terminal in Oakland. This will be accomplished by looting south along the bay to a narrow point which will be bridged, thence north up the San Francisco peninsula via Redwood City, San Mateo and Burlingame.

Key, File, Found In Slayer's Cell

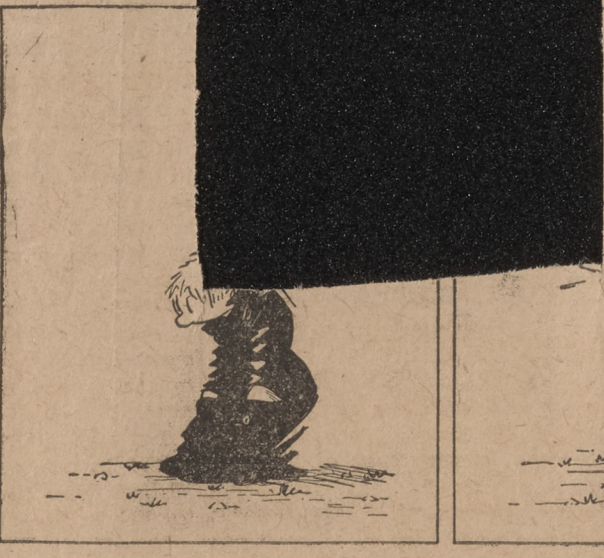

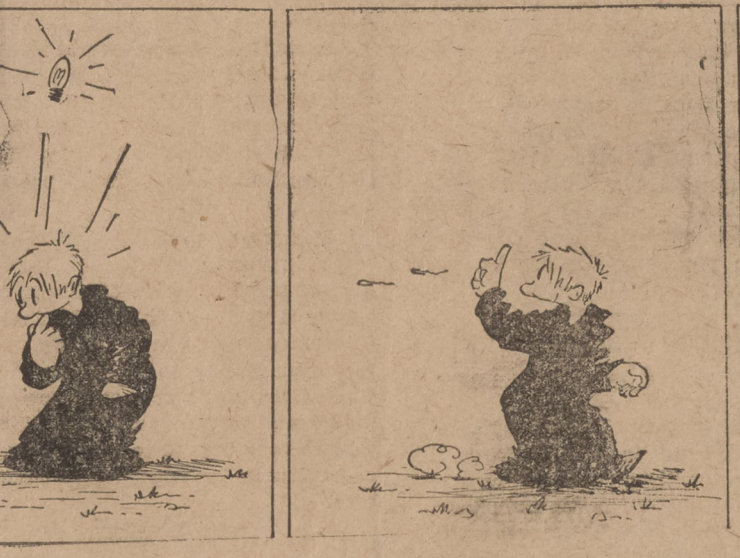

TACOMA, June 21.—UP—A tip led police to search the cell of Ed Gorman today, and discovered that the prisoner, wanted in San Francisco for the alleged murder of a S. F. police officer possessed a file and a handcuff key.

When the tip was received, officers entered Gorman's cell and found the file and key cleverly concealed in his clothing. Later a special day and night guard was placed about Gorman's cell.

500 Injured In Indian Rioting

For the first time since Gandhi's home rule campaign was inaugurated, women stood in the front ranks of the demonstration and defied police calling out that they did not fear the dangers of fighting.

Christian Science Lesson Subject

"Is the Universe, Including Man Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The citations which comprise the lesson-sermon will include the following from the Bible: "And God said, let us make man in our image, after our likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. So God created man in his own image, in the image of God he created him, male and female created he them. And God saw everything that he had made, and behold, it is very good." (Gen. 1:26, 27, 31.)

The lesson-sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Unfathomable mind is expressed. The depth, breadth, the height, might, majesty and glory of infinite love fill all space. That is enough! Human language can repeat only an infinitesimal part of what exists. The absolute ideal man is no more seen or comprehended by mortals than is his infinite principle, love." (P. 520.)

RICHARD DIX
IN COMEDY
FILM

Lauded as one of the most entertaining and enjoyable films Richard Dix has ever made, "Lovin' the Ladies" all talking comedy romance, opens today at the Fox California theater for a two day run. Audiences and critics in other cities have acclaimed the film one of the outstanding laugh hits of the year.

The picture brings Dix to the screen at the height of his popularity. Talking pictures have been introduced since his scores of successful silent films, and they have not found Dix wanting. In fact, he is even better suited to dialogue films than to silent pictures—the result of extensive stage training.

Curiously enough, "Lovin' the Ladies" gives Dix the first chance he has had in pictures to play a role he originally created on the stage. The film was adapted from William Le Baron's Broadway comedy, "I Love You," in which Dix was starred several years ago or the New York stage. The play was an outstanding hit during its long run on Broadway, and the film is said to even surpass the original.

Dix is cast as an electrician who attempts to break into the smart set. Developments prove to be usually amusing, giving Dix great opportunity at handling light comedy.

A notable supporting cast is to be seen in the film. Lois Wilson, who will be remembered as Dix's heroine in several silent pictures, is playing with him again and is said to be more appealing than ever. Allen Kearns, stage comedian Rita La Ro, Renee Macready and Anthony Bushell also are seen in important roles.

Also on the program is a Fox Movietone News and talking comedy entitled, "Chills and Fever."

Neil Hamilton
Plays Lead In Talkie Here

Neil Hamilton, leading man opposite Laura La Plante in "The Love Trap" her current Universal starring feature now playing at the Richmond theater, became a matinee idol without any hardship or struggle whatever. Playing on the legitimate stage in stock, he was seen by David Wark Griffith, who offered him the original contract which brought him into the photoplay realm. Hamilton's success was instantaneous and since that time he has always been in demand. Appearing with him in "The Love Trap" are such sterling players as Robert Ellis, Norman Trevor, Charissa Edwyne, Jocelyn Lee, Rita La Roy and others.

On the same program, "Around the World via Graf Zeppelin," a talking picture of the epochal flight of Commander Hugo Eckener with twenty passengers and a crew of forty, produced by the Hearst newspapers and presented by Talking Picture Epics, will be shown.

Local Boys On Mountain Hike

Frank Forix and Schuyler Albert have embarked on a hike through the Sierra Nevada mountains above Yosemite, having driven as far as they could by automobile. They will be gone about two weeks.

Bancroft Wins Film Prestige By Hard Work

Nine out of every ten visitors to the Paramount studios in Hollywood ask the same question, "Is George Bancroft working?" and "Can we meet him?" The questions are natural ones. George Bancroft is considered the most popular man star before the motion picture public today. A nation-wide poll just completed by Variety, well known trade publication, showed that.

It is only recently that this has been so. Lon Chaney, for more than a year was Hollywood's leading masculine attraction. And there were others.

Bancroft himself has a reason for his success. It was not accidental with him.

When George Bancroft first arrived in Hollywood, having deliberately discarded all hope for the stage career that had been opening up so promisingly, he worked as an extra and a bit player in western pictures for a few dollars a day.

At that time he told his few acquaintances, "Some day I'm going to be the biggest star in this business." He continued to say it, every time the necessity for repetition arose, until finally they quit laughing at him. All that is a matter of history in Hollywood.

Bancroft's fine work in "The Pony Express" was far reaching in its result. Letters from admiring picture fans all over the world began to pour into the studio and a contract resulted. Parts in three other Paramount pictures followed almost immediately and then came, in succession, two outstanding opportunities. Bancroft was cast to play the Gunner's Mate in "Old Ironsides," and as Happy Joe in "The Rough Riders." Success for him was inevitable from that time on.

Witness "Underworld" "Thunderbolt," "The Wolf of Wall Street," "The Mighty" and now "Ladies Love Brutes," his latest picture, which comes to the Fox California theater on Tuesday next.

Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled "Patrol Forces" with Ford Sterling one of the original Keystone Caps.

JAPANESE TO MAKE OCEAN FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—UP—After three years of planning, during which time he waited on tables in an exclusive chop suey parlor in Pasadena, Zenaka Azuma, 37-year old Japanese American citizen, is ready to start a flight from Los Angeles to Tokyo, going by way of New York, London, Berlin and Moscow.

Azuma, typical of his countrymen, has worked quietly toward this flight and only a very few people knew until recently that he was planning such a daring venture. One of the first persons who knew of Azuma's plan, and who has given it his whole hearted support was Col. Art Goebel, famous trans-pacific flyer.

Goebel has known of the plan for two years, during which time he has been advising and coaching Azuma in navigation, oceanic flight and other difficult details accompanying such a task.

About six months ago Azuma found that he had saved enough money from wages and tips received at the chop suey parlors to purchase a plane capable of such a flight. The plane was secured with Goebel's advice, and preparations made.

Azuma intends leaving Los Angeles for New York within a short time. From the eastern city he will ship his plane, a large bi-plane powered with a 425 horsepower motor, to London, from which point he will fly in easy stages across Europe, Russia, Siberia and finally to Tokyo.

Once in Tokyo Azuma hopes to gain audience with Japanese military officials with the object in view of selling them the idea of American made airplanes for military as well as commercial uses.

During the World War, Azuma joined the United States army aviation corps as an expert mechanic. It was through this connection that he first became interested in airplanes. After the war he spent his spare time working around airports, gradually learning how to fly. He first soloed in 1922 and since that time has had over 1000 hours.

If successful in convincing the Japanese government that American made airplanes and motors are superior to those the country now purchases from various European countries, Azuma will probably stay in Japan, entering the commercial aviation field.

A large golf-ball isn't the answer to our game. What we need is larger cups.

Couple Sued By Associated Oil Co.

MARTINEZ, June 21.—Seeking to oust them from premises at San Pablo, the Associated Oil company today filed suit against William and Kate Fountain. The oil company alleges that the couple signed a lease on the premises at $5 a month, three years ago, and agreed to conduct a service station for the Associated products.

Since that time, the complaint alleges, the agreement has been broken and the oil company asks restitution of the property and $50 a month for such time as the property is retained by others.

CHRYSLER ADDS NEW STYLE COUPE

The addition of a convertible coupe with rumble seat to the new low-priced Chrysler six line has been announced this week by the Chrysler Sales corporation, according to Harry Curry, local Chrysler dealer. The car, selling at a factory price of $925, brings the total models in this series to six body styles, offered at $795 up, the lowest price range that Chrysler has ever offered a six-cylinder car. The convertible coupe has wood wheels as standard equipment. Wire wheels with spares in the front fender wells are available at additional cost.

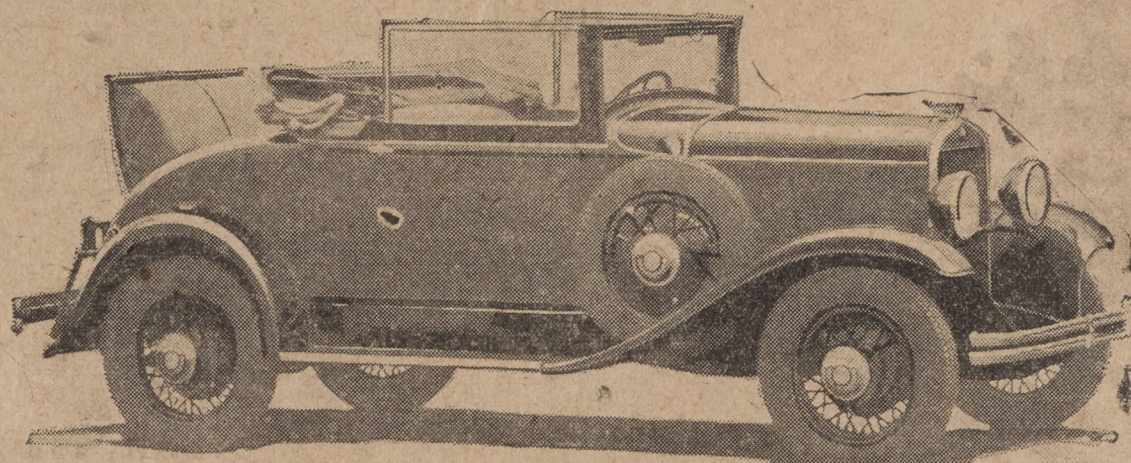

The convertible coupe combines the seasonal advantages of a roadster with those of a coupe. The top folds back compactly for open car driving, and can be quickly and easily adjusted for closed car driving in unfavorable weather. Chromium plated frames for the door glass afford a smart appearance when the top is back and the door glass up.

Finished in attractive color combinations with contrasting panels and striping, the car presents a striking appearance with its graceful body lines. The seat cushions are upholstered in heavy tan leather both in the driver's compartment and rumble seat. Rubberized pile fabric, matching the top, is available as special equipment for upholstery at slight extra cost. All exterior hardware of the car is chromium-plated.

The car is powered with a 62-horsepower engine that has already proved its high performance standards in thousands of Chrysler sixes now in owners' hands. The engine has a bore of 3 1/8 inches and stroke of 4 1/4 inches with a displacement of 195.6 cubic inches. The compression ratio is 5.2 to 1.

The seat of the convertible coupe is adjustable, and provides ample room for two or three passengers. Convenience and completeness are provided for the driver. Grouped in a panel indirectly illuminated and speedometer, ammeter, oil pressure gauge, and electric fuel gauge. Carburetor choke and theft lock ignition switch are within easy reach. On top of the three spoke steering wheel are the light control switch, gasoline throttle and horn button. Spark control is entirely automatic. Gear shift is standard, three speeds forward and one reverse. The hand brake contracts on the drive shaft, while service brakes are the Chrysler weather-proof internal-expanding four-wheel hydraulic type, affording safety at all driving speeds.

FINANCE EXPERT WILL STUDY COLOMBIA

WASHINGTON, June 21.—UP—Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer, of Princeton, whose financial wizardry has brought economic normalcy to countries on five continents, has been engaged in undertaking an economic survey in Colombia, scene of his earlier technical labors.

Physician extraordinary in cases of sick currency systems and budgetary ailments, Dr. Kemmerer recently has completed an economic survey in China for the nationalist government. Subsequently he went to the Philippine Islands and is understood to have been engaged as a consultant for future economic or financial problems that may arise there.

His prospective work in Colombia is understood to have been initiated by President-elect Enrique Olaya Herrera, ex-minister to Washington. Its exact nature is not revealed, but it is presumed that Dr. Kemmerer will observe the operation of the fiscal and budgetary system which he recommended in 1923; now in operation, and that he will study any improvements that may be necessary in the light of new conditions.

The Kemmerer financial mission to Colombia in 1922 made recommendations for currency reform which led to the establishment in 1923 of a new central bank; a semi-public institution with capital of 10,000,000 pesos. A new banking law and improved budget system also were made effective.

The international engagements of Professor Kemmerer always attract great interest in financial and international circles here, because of his past service in so many countries. He was financial adviser to United States-Philippine Islands commission when the gold standard was established there in 1903. He became professor at Princeton University in 1912, a post which he still retains, but in that period has been engaged internationally.

In most of the countries which he has counseled, Professor Kemmerer's recommendations have been made effective and have had a salutary effect on fiscal and commercial affairs. In recent years this was particularly true in Chile, Colombia and Poland. Other countries, applied his recommendations in part, and each successive engagement has added to his prestige as an economist.

The success of Dr. Kemmerer, as interpreted by experts, rest not alone upon his economic insight, but on his skill in treating conditions in a scientific manner without antagonizing political elements.

The reports said that Enriquez Loza, Bolivian Communist agitator, was arrested when the town was captured, and that three candidates for office, loyal to the government, were set free. Twenty-five prisoners were taken.

NASH CAR WINS IN FRENCH RACES

Winning the coveted gold medal awards for perfect driving and reliability scores against a field of more than 150 entrants, and taking the famous George Ham cup for highest speed on the Le Mans race course following the gruelling test run, two Nash "400" stock cars made a clean sweep of international automobile honors in the annual European motor classic, the "Tour de France," according to reports received by Roy K. Dorr, local automobile dealer.

Without any special preparation or prior trials over the historic 5000 kilometer tour where this combination reliability, general performance and speed contest is held annually, a twin-ignition six Cabriolet, driven by M. Rovin, and a twin ignition eight Cabriolet piloted by the French road champion, M. Dohme, made a spectacular debut into French sport circles by completing the difficult tour without a single penalty, and by annexing the highest awards obtainable for individual entries finishing with perfect scores.

In the speed test against time on the championship Le Mans speedway, M. Dohme's twin-ignition eight negotiated the course at an average speed of 110 kilometers an hour and was clocked on the stretch at 135 kilometers an hour to win the George Ham cup for the years. Ease of operation, faultless performance and safety at these high speeds were also checked as essentials in the carefully regulated contest.

The annual "Tour de France" is at once the most interesting and exciting automobile competition held in the world. For European automobile fans, it combines the romance and mechanical tests of the old time Glidden tours, the public Pike's Peak hill climb and the annual Indianapolis speedway race. For all of these competitive elements enter the tour and affect the expert grading of the cars. The tour this year began at the Porto Maillot in Paris and covered 5000 kilometers of hard road driving with Le Harve and Lille as the first objectives of the eight-day run. It included hill climbing tests in the mountains of southern France, cold motor starting tests, braking tests and other performance competitions as well as the speed tests at Le Mans.

Official control stations along the route of travel checked the condition of the contesting cars each morning and night and official observers accompanied the drivers to grade performance along the road. No smallest defect, such as overheating on the hills, valve troubles, hard steering, hard riding or other development was overlooked by the technical observers and penalties were rigidly assessed for every driving irritation that might be met with by the average automobile owner on tour.

At each control point the contesting cars were exhibited, making each stop a virtual automobile show for local fans. The tour was generally spoken of as "le Salon ambulante de printemps," or the traveling spring motor show. Thousands of motor enthusiasts gathered all along the route to see in action and to judge more critically the cars which they have previously viewed in the autumn Salon held in the Grand Palace in Paris. That the remarkable record made by the Nash entries and their superb performance throughout the tour made many new friends in France is indicated by the fact that several new Nash dealers were appointed in cities and towns visited by the tour.

"Throughout the difficult course," says excerpts from a dispatch from one of the newspapers sponsoring the tour, "these Nash cars never experienced the slightest mishap. From one end to the other their performance was admirable for its smoothness and regularity. In the test for starting with a cold motor at Brest, one Nash covered the measured ten kilometers in five seconds, and this after a cold and rainy night. The comfort and agreeableness of the steering and the gentleness of spring suspension make the Nash the car ideal for touring."

The twin-ignition six piloted by M. Rovin entered the tour directly from its factory shipping case and before being broken into traffic. The record making twin-ignition eight was taken from the salesroom floor. Bodies and all parts of the two winners were standard in every respect.

Birthday Of Princess Of Spain Today

MADRID, June 21.—UP—Her Royal Highness, the Infanta Beatriz of Bourbon and Battenberg, celebrates her 21st birthday tomorrow.

The third child of King Alfonso XIII and Queen Victoria Eugenia, was born at the summer palace of San Ildefonso de la Granja on June 22, 1909.

On occasion of the Infanta's birthday, the court will be in "half full dress"—media gala—as full dress or "gala" is used only on the birthdays and saints days of the king, queen and the Prince of Asturias.

The Infanta Beatriz is the elder of the two daughters of Their Most Catholic Majesties, and occasionally her name is mentioned as the prospective bride of some prince or noble but these rumors have been either ignored and allowed to die, or denied.

Beatriz and her sister, Maria Cristina, have lately been assiduously taking their training as Red Cross nurses. They are also good tennis players, making a good team for doubles, and are also golf enthusiasts.

The Infanta's full name is Beatriz Isabel Federica Alfonso Eu-

WALES LIKES MOVIE SHOWS

LONDON, June 21.—UP—The Prince of Wales is an enthusiastic film fan but he does not enjoy war pictures.

Unlike the pomp and flourish that attends the visits of the royal family to the legitimate theaters, the prince reserves tickets for himself and a friend and the pair arrive secretly at the cinema.

The manager is not informed and the usher rarely recognizes the distinguished fan in the darkness. Before the audience is aware of his presence, the Prince and his guest are seated.

Prince George likewise, is a movie fan and "drops in" the theater much after the manner of his brother. Recently the Prince of Wales recognized his younger brother sitting directly in front of him and they shook hands across the seats.

While in Africa, recently the Prince made a film of his trip. Most of the important scenes now having been assembled and arranged for projection.

AGED WOMAN SAID BEST QUILTER

DODGE CITY, Kas., June 21.—UP—Mrs. Lurinda E. Brumbaugh, 88-year old Dodge City "knows her quilts."

Her fame for "quilting" work spread until her present clientele is from a large number of states—north, south east and west. She has quilted 36 quilts for one customer. Her work has won first prizes in Los Angeles and Chicago fairs.

Mrs. Brumbaugh, in spite of her age, insists that she can sear better to make the tiny stitches in quilting than she can read at length, and she often works until 10 o'clock at night.

As a child back in Ohio, more than 75 years ago she learned the art of quilting from her mother. Many a morning she arose early to help her mother with the quilting before time to start for school. Those were the days when women had to weave and color materials for jeans and dresses, and this child learned the art which many years later was to prove her only hobby and sustenance.

Mrs. Brumbaugh and her husband came to Kansas in 1878 and endured some of the hardships of pioneer life in this section. Their family of eight children were reared in a sod house. Mrs. Brumbaugh has been a widow for more than 45 years. About 30 years ago she returned to the art which her mother had taught her little less than half a century previous, and she began to quilt for friends.

She does her own housework, raises chickens and flowers and has roomers part of the time.

She is in splendid health. She says she will never grow old except in point of years.

"Wilful Woman Will Have Her Way"

ONCE upon a time—something less than a year ago—there was a woman.

THE AMERICAN WOMAN, in short, who made up her mind that she would not let the men who make the fashions make her miserable. She would not, she vowed, get all hot and bothered.

Wearing on the street, in the office, in the subway, in the country, in most places during most of her waking hours.

A skirt so long that it interfered with her comfort, activity, even safety—

And a skirt that made her look from five to ten years older.

For months the battle raged—

And then, one day, she won.

But, judging by the new summer frocks and the girls who shop, they're resolved to fight it out on the skirt line.

If it takes all summer—

And observation of real girls as contrasted with the imaginary sketches of them in the fashion supplements.

Must convince the disinterested observer that the stubborn devotees of skirts short enough to be nude.

Are by no means being their fickle.

Just look around you downtown, when New York's business girls—

The best dressed young women in the world—go out to lunch.

How often do you see a really long skirt?

A few dipping points, an uneven back hemline, may give the illusion of greater length.

But if knees have gone into temporary retirement, skirts have not, and not merely the simpler sports frocks, but graceful printed georgettes and chiffons.

Swirl far above the ground.

The most formal evening frocks may be long—although we've seen not a few dance dresses.

Which made no attempt to conceal the fact that the wearer was a biped—

But there are such lovely summer frocks of reasonable shortness.

Which girls can wear at all except the most elaborate functions—

And which girls DO wear—

"I don't want anything long," the sweet young thing, with whom we recently went shopping.

Firmly informed the clerk, prefatory to choosing her graduation and her class day frock.

Even daygown saving has been enlisted on the side of the short-skirters.

And "daylight" dresses are plenty short enough for comfort.

Why, just the other day, a dispatch from Paris.

Quoted Jean Patou, famous couturier, as recapitulating.

On his pronouncement that the skirt shall stay long.

It was the American girl, he is said to have admitted on his return from an American visit.

Who convinced him that such a conventionist leader.

And that even charity is more all-covering nowadays than the best-motivated philanthropy.

Which are developed by the so-called "sports dress" in the wardrobe of the average girl.

How many girls really have to spend many hours.

In a dress so long that they loathe it.

There's even a movement on foot in London—let's hope New York follows.

To abolish long skirts for evening wear.

Just the other day the cables reported a demonstration.

By five hundred feminine members of the Association of Women Clerks and Secretaries.

Who like the Suffragettes of yesterday, marched on Parliament.

To demand that the short skirt stay long.

One of the chief speakers was a woman M. P., Miss Ellen Wilkinson.

Who said, indignantly, that she had found it impossible to buy a short evening dress in all London.

And that as a consequence she had worn her latest dinner frock.

When, wearing it, she had driven herself to a Parliament dinner—

"I wish we could go on strike against the tyranny of fashion!" she exclaimed.

Nevertheless, we insist that, for a first rebellion against fashion's overlord.

The women have done pretty well.

And have once demonstrated that a wilful woman will have her way.

We received a letter, several months ago, from Joseph P. Fabian.

Who said, indignantly, that she had found it impossible to buy a short evening dress in all London.

And that as a consequence she had worn her latest dinner frock.

When, wearing it, she had driven herself to a Parliament dinner—

"I wish we could go on strike against the tyranny of fashion!" she exclaimed.

Nevertheless, we insist that, for a first rebellion against fashion's overlord.

And have once demonstrated that a wilful woman will have her way.

When You Plant Dahlias

By Karin Broberg

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

AS A CLASS, dahlias are not particular about soil, for while they seem to do best in a light, sandy loam, yet they do splendidly in all kinds of soil, from pure sand to heavy clay. All they require is the proper food, water and thorough cultivation. Most authorities, however, agree that a good, rich garden loam, rich in humus, suits them best.

While these plants will do well in a sunny location, the ideal place is one with an open situation to the morning sun, some shade at noon time, and full sunshine from 3 o'clock in the afternoon until sundown.

In preparing the ground for dahlias, dig the soil to the depth of about ten inches. Then mix it with sheep manure and bone meal. When the ground is thoroughly prepared, dig a hole six inches deep, in which to place the tuber. The tuber should be placed on its side with the eye pointing upward. Never crowd the plants, as they must have a free circulation of air at all times. Place the tubers from three to four feet apart. Next cover the tubers carefully with soil.

Another important thing in growing dahlias is the matter of cultivation. At least twice a week and even after rain as you can get into the garden, the surface of the soil around the plants must be broken up with a trowel. A deep cultivation is necessary. A little later when the feeding roots are close to the surface, cultivation can be dispensed with by the application of a mulch in the form of lawn clippings or peat moss. This mulch should be about two inches deep. Apply to that every inch of the soil is covered.

Rooms Can Have Bad Manners

AN essential of charm is hospitality. So in placing the furniture in whichever room you receive your friends, it is well to remember this essential. A room that expresses rudeness has no more appeal than a rude person. Moreover, a room can be very bit as rude as a person, states Emily Post in "The Personality of a House."

A notoriously bad-mannered group of ill-bred arrangement, a huge upholstered sofa is jammed up in front of the fireplace with a colossal library table back of it, two bookshelves flanking the sofa, and a row of chairs to walk around.

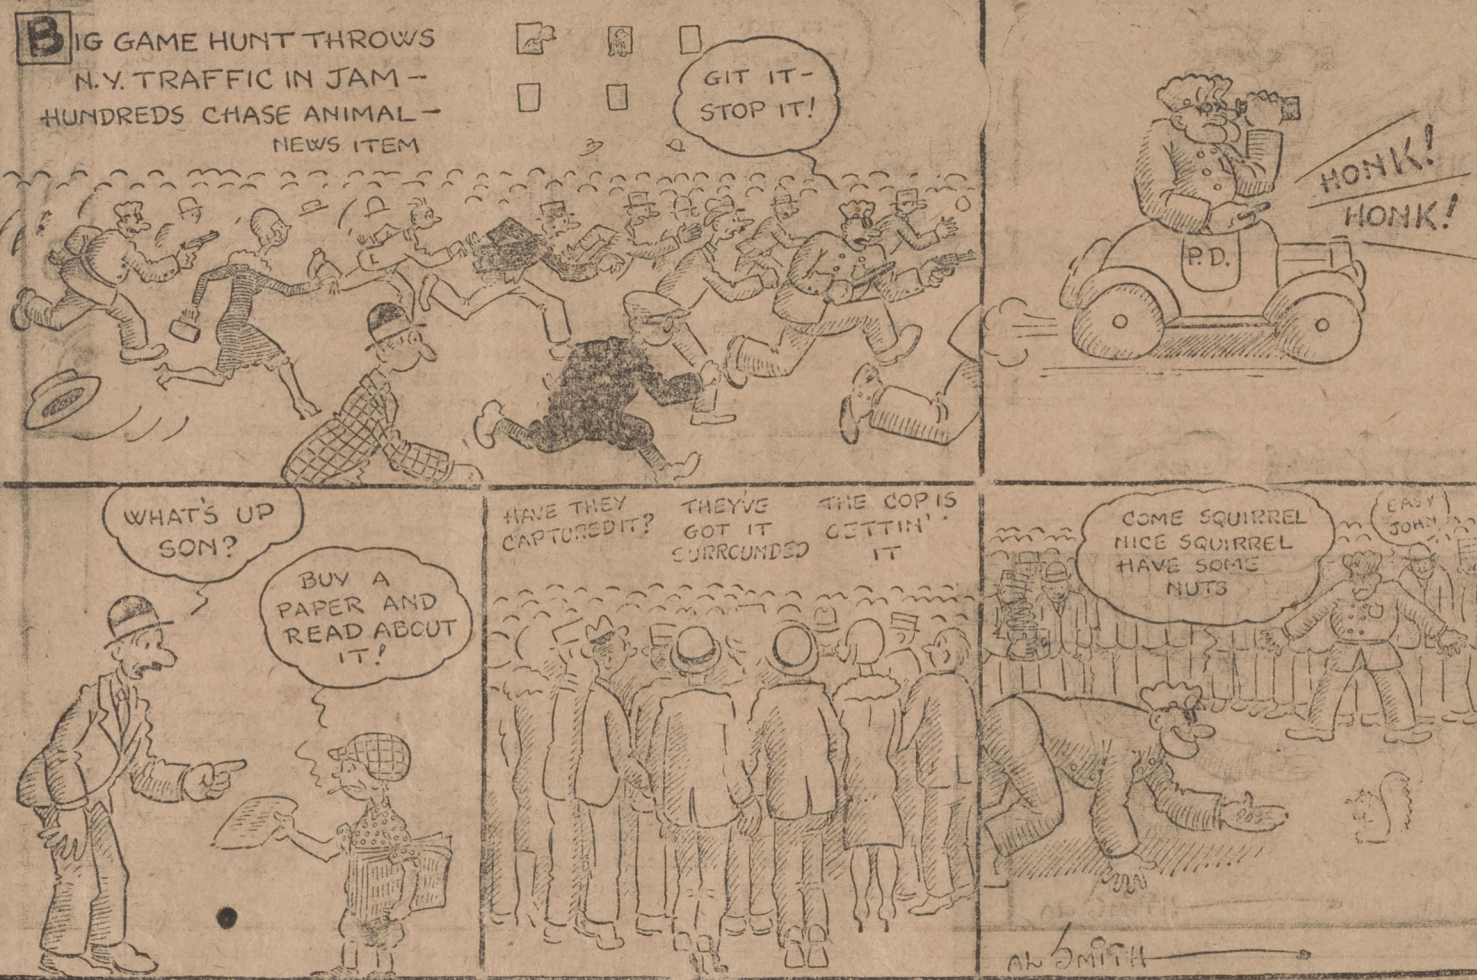

Even if a room be large enough to leave plenty of space around it, a central clustering of furniture, barricading a hearth—the symbol of hospitality—results obviously in back-turdiness. In a modern luxurious house, such furnishing is awkward, inhospitable and charm-destroying, unless the room is occupied by a man alone and no more than three other persons are under any circumstances admitted.

Rooms that are skillfully and invitingly arranged have ease, poise and welcoming grace of manner. Others that are haphazardly assembled are often as ill-mannered as the unknowing hostess who has the dishes at table presented to herself first, and her guests to leaveings passed on to her.

It is well to imagine yourself a guest who has just entered the door, to perceive the charm or absence of charm in your own home.

Penthouse in Infancy Says Norman Bel Geddes

Architect of Aerial Restaurant for Chicago World's Fair Thinks Lofly Construction Is Just Beginning

By Alma Zais

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

BACK in the dim past, when Shakespeare's Borachio remarked to Conrade, "Stand thee then, under this penthouse, for it dazzles rain," little did he vision the future possibilities of that shelter. Nor could his wildest imaginings have predicted its evolution from the little jutting structure of his time to the glorified abode it is to-day.

But who in our own generation would have guessed that the lowly penthouse of ten or fifteen years ago would become the piece de resistance of apartment life? A few years back it was a shambling sheet from bungalow perched among the water tanks on flat-topped buildings. To-day it is an impressive studio and aerial homes with pergolas and exotic gardens are designed in its name.

It was that word "aerial," by the way, that sent me off to talk to the man whose latest achievement is more typical of that realm than any building we have thus far encountered. What would Norman Bel Geddes have to say about the penthouse? Surely something original, or he would not have been inspired to design his great aerial restaurant, revolving on a pedestal high up in the air so that diners may see in all directions during the World's Fair at Chicago in 1932?

The rapid development of the penthouse from a mere sheet from shed on the roof to to-day's luxurious story and a half or duplex with terraced gardens and lily ponds was easily accounted for by this versatile builder.

"Half the people in the large cities have no chance at the air and sun," he said. "And a penthouse gets as lavish a share of both as does any country house or millionaire's estate. It is much cleaner and quieter than above the noise and the dust of the street. And think of the exquisite privacy the world at your feet—a clean sweep of air north, east, south, west—the glory of the setting sun and the first peep of it at dawn! No wonder the modern world wants a penthouse and is willing to pay for it."

"The trouble with all but a few penthouse homes," however, Mr. Geddes appended, "has been in their design. The mere novelty of living in the air and sunshine makes people so glad to get them, and competition makes them so hard to get, that landlords have been able to pass off almost anything, architecturally speaking."

"But that situation will change. Eventually people will want to buy their penthouses and, just as they do when buying a co-operative apartment, they will come into the building before it is well under way, demanding better architectural details, better room arrangement and decoration. Then we shall see a revolution in penthouse construction such as has not been dreamed of, so far."

When You Entertain

CREPE PAPER is often used as runners and makes an attractive table covering. Two-color effects are favored, such as peach and almond, pink and pale green, etc. The edge of the paper is usually scalloped, fringed, crimped or otherwise embellished. The rose petal scallops are very pretty, and as this decorative touch is quite popular you may like to know how to achieve this edge.

Just hold the edge of the paper securely by placing the middle and forefingers of the left hand on the edge. In the right hand hold a pencil with a rubber end, and with the eraser end push the paper down between the two fingers. This will give the pointed scallop that resembles the edge of a rose petal. After the first point is made, move the fingers along a bit and continue as directed along the entire edge of the runner.

The ends may be decorated with suitable applique floral cut-outs, scattered colored eggs or a design may be applied with water colors.

To-Day's Good Manners

By Millicent James

DO think the supreme test of good breeding, if I must use the term, comes in the roles of house guest and hostess. It is then, if ever, that all the finer instincts of unselfishness and sympathy, of understanding and infinite tact come to the surface to be put into action.

Circumstances that have to do with visiting and being visited are so individual that it is difficult to outline general rules beyond those of politeness, but many, and of these not a few have undergone radical change in recent years.

No one now, no one who knows, thinks of inviting any one to make a house visit without stipulating precisely how long or how short a visit is desired or convenient. You know how it used to be: "Come and make us a visit," and the prospective guest was left completely in the dark as to what a "visit" meant—a week end, a week or a month. The hostess, similarly was at a disadvantage and too often the visit prolonged itself into a visitation which wearied all concerned and stretched the bonds of friendship to the breaking point and beyond.

It is much nicer the new way, more satisfactory all round. It does away with annoying uncertainty, leaving both hostess and guest free from the start to make what plans they desire after the visit. It is even advisable and perfectly correct to explain that service if the guest is to come by train, and in any case, to suggest a suitable hour for arrival and departure.

It is not even necessary any more to meet your guest personally on her arrival. It is even preferable to have some other member of the family at the station, or if there is a chauffeur, delegate him for the service. There are such bustling times that it is entirely permissible to allow a guest to find her own taxi to the house.

So, if you are planning to have a house guest this summer, say in your invitation: "Can you come to me on Thursday, the 15th to stay until the following Friday? The train arrives here at 4:30 on Thursday and leaves after dinner on Friday. I shall not be able to meet you as I have a bridge on Thursday, so take a taxi and come right along up." Imagine being as casual as that even a few years ago! But these are casual times, aren't they?

If you are the hostess, you will from the first make your guest feel at home, acquainting her with the few things necessary about the routine of the household, telling her of any plans for entertaining you may have in the near future. And in the role of guest, it is well to ask, if the information is not given beforehand, Also whether it is customary to dress for dinner, and so on.

If the house is a servantless one, the guest attends to her own room by all means, making the bed, tidying up and the rest. If there is one servant, it would be advisable to make the bed the first morning, then if your hostess prefers, as some do, to have it made for you, she will tell you that it isn't necessary for you to attend to it. Where there is a quota of servants of course the guest does nothing but keep her things in comparative order.

Many hostesses now, even where the house has no servants, serve a tray breakfast to guests, which she herself may take up. This leaves her free for a few extra hours to perform what tasks she must without having the guest observe the domestic wheels go round.

To make a guest or guests feel free to follow their own inclinations, yet be watchful that there is a sufficient variety of entertainment so that they are not bored is the role of the accomplished hostess, and on the part of the guest to disrupt the routine of the household as little as possible—to be, in fact, for the time being, a member of the family, tactful, cheerful, at all times appreciative.

In leaving, the visitor must not forget to tip the servants. The amount varies with the service rendered and with the pretentiousness of the household. As a rule, two or three dollars will answer for a week-end stay for a week—for each servant. Of course it is a pity. One hates to encourage this system of tipping, especially in private houses, but except that certain hostesses tip otherwise, it is expected, and the servants must receive their "pourboires" as surely as the waiters in a restaurant. Custom demands it.

The hostess need not see her guest off. She may send her to the station in a taxi or there is no chauffeur, but it is much more hospitable to send with her a member of the family.

One obligation too frequently forgotten is the letter of appreciation. It is always a pleasant surprise to find a letter of appreciation to send the erstwhile hostess a small gift. This, however, is not essential and if given it should be carefully chosen.

TELLING THE WORLD

NOT since the Declaration of Independence (1472) has so much interest been aroused as this series of home instruction has attracted. People for miles around, and some who are even closer, are following these lessons and learning a new trade in their spare hours. One of the popular features of this series is that you send no money and city coupons. There are no free booklets to be sent you on receipt of 43 cents to cover cost of packing, pasting, addressing, stamping, dropping in the mail box, etc. All you do is select a career that we offer, study the instructions that are given and then go out and make a success. There is no fee, charge, gratuity or other synonym of that nature. So far we have presented courses on how to become a fight promoter and how to become a window washer. Scores have already embarked on those careers, but the majority are holding off for our course on becoming a bootlegger. This is not presented to-day, however, as we wish to maintain interest in this series to the very end. To-day's lesson explains how to become an inventor.)

HOW TO BECOME AN INVENTOR

(In one lesson—no extras)

OWING to lack of space, we are omitting instructions on how to invent something. Anyway, your real struggles only begin after that.

Now that you have your invention, you have got to place it on the market. You give one-half the stock to a patent attorney, a one-third interest to a kind-hearted banker who lends you $250 and another third to a stock promoter. You have now signed away 116 per cent. of your rights, which leaves you the balance for inventing the thing.

For instance, suppose you are Abner Jenkins and you bring out a new kind of potato masher that makes a big success and brings in $400,000 profit. Of this sum, the patent attorney gets $175,000, the kind-hearted banker gets $112,500 and the stock promoter gets $112,500. But the invention is called the Abner Jenkins Potato Masher! (Ain't dat sumptin?)

Now, the next instruction we aim to give is that nothing is too trivial to invent. Take, for example, Samuel E. B. Morse, or were his middle initials the other way 'round? Anyway, he invented the Morse code.

Now when the Morse code was first invented, there was little demand for dots and dashes. People who signed mortgages, leases, magazine subscriptions, etc., always did so on straight lines. Then Morse's promotion department showed the advantage of using dots for those lines. Immediately a big boom followed and Morse put on hundreds of extra operators just to furnish the dots alone. It has been said—and only Senator Borah has risen to doubt it—that Samuel E. B. Morse and his dotted lines made possible the installation of furniture and fur coat business, as well as the partial payment plan for automobiles.

The Morse code for telegraphic communication did pretty well for a time until the Boy Scouts perfected their wig-wag system. Now it is not so good. But Morse was resourceful with his dots and dashes and immediately started a chain of dot factories. These rolled up another fortune.

Then man long came along and crucified the domino business. It looked like bankruptcy for the owners of the Morse code. But they bided their time because they knew they had a good thing in these dots and dashes—especially the dots.

Well, their faith was justified. The following autumn the artificial leprosy and skin coat was placed on the market, increasing the demand for dots. Once more the Morse factories were working overtime. At the same time they were loading their warehouses with millions of dots, waiting for the time when artificial zebra skin coats would come into style, too. And when they do, the Morse people will be all prepared. Any one can see they can't possibly lose.

The above instructions show clearly how to become an inventor and you are now ready to embark on your career. Follow the directions closely.

You and Your Child

By Irma Morris

Holding His Breath

"M"Y child holds his breath occasionally," a mother said to me. "I don't know what to do about it. It frightens me to death."

Most parents are very much frightened when their children hold their breath. It is at times a very terrifying sight. But no child has ever, as far as I can ascertain, died of holding his breath. The youngsters always take the breath back again.

Why do children act in this way? They are simply expressing anger! They often do this, in order to get what they want, or to attract attention or arouse sympathy. Sometimes, too, they do it when they are enraged at their own inability to accomplish something, or when another child has annoyed them.

Obviously the thing for us to do is to find out why Jackie is indulging in these exhibitions, and then to treat him in whatever way will most quickly stop their recurrence. If Jackie stages this sort of scene whenever he wants to get his own way, we have to teach him that this will not accomplish his purpose. Do not give in to him, in order to make him stop holding his breath. If you do, he will continue using this trick to tyrannize over you, until he becomes a well entrenched habit. In kindness to the child, teach him that this sort of thing accomplishes nothing! Say as little attention to him as you can. Do not show concern or excitement. You will be helping your child greatly by controlling yourself.

If Jackie is holding his breath to attract attention or arouse sympathy, by your kindly indifference you will be showing him that he is using the wrong method. But be sure to give him plenty of attention and affection at other times, when he earns them in more legitimate ways.

If these spells occur when anger is aroused, because of failure to accomplish something, help the child in this accomplishment and show him how to do the job himself. Let him see that patience and practice bring results. In this way, he will learn that it is far better to overcome obstacles, than to get angry at them. Let us treat our youngsters justly and sympathetically. Let us teach them that they can gain the thing they want through fair means but not by foul! Let us show them that holding one's breath and angering one's family and friends are "tricks of the trade" do not pay! If a child has already acquired this unpleasant habit, it may take time before it is overcome. We must be patient with our individual child and be patient with him how to make a better adjustment to each situation.

Sports Stockings

CONTRAST for the sports frock of cotton and silk or cotton stocking is the stocking of mesh like, woven with a slender zig-zag clock and available in a wealth of fashionable colors.

More suitable for the spectator than the town costume is the stocking of sheer silk which has a colored clock in contrast. Let us see, in history are accented with clocks in green, blue, red, or black, all with very attractive effect when worn with harmonizing shoes.

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works remarkably and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every girl has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

INSTALLMENT NINE
Georges Carpentier, fresh from triumphs in the theatre of Paris, was one of the picturesque principals of "Show of Shows." The friendliest of persons, Georges was not slow in becoming a favorite with the humbler players like

"My tight's packed in camphor. My gloves hang on the wall. I'm through with the game." "He's through with the game," is the assurance of girls. "And yet my fighting instinct. Will not let me quit at all. It's really a shame." "He says it's a shame," chorus (the girls). "I used to flick a fellow who was nearly twice my size. For I have no defense at all. But I have a pair of beautiful eyes. A pretty girl can knock me out. I hear them counting ten. But when another comes along, I get right up again."

Having confessed these weaknesses, which are after all only human, Georges finds expression for his ambitions in the refrain, as follows: "If I could learn to love. As well as I fight. How I would like to train. On a beautiful night."

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works remarkably and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every girl has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SHOW OF SHOWS

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"Show of Shows," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture was the source for the material on which these stories are based.

SYNOPSIS
Leo Hanlon meets Queenie Quinn, Hollywood script girl, who lands him an extra role in "Show of Shows." The musical revue film, Leo appears in numbers starring John Barrymore and Monte Blue. Queenie, who takes more than a business interest in Leo, advises him to learn the "inside" of picture production. As the shooting of "Show of Shows" continues, Hanlon takes part in a comedy number with Lupino Lane and in the grand finale. The latter scene, strangely enough, is shot when the picture is only half completed.

INSTALLMENT NINE
Georges Carpentier, fresh from triumphs in the theatre of Paris, was one of the picturesque principals of "Show of Shows." The friendliest of persons, Georges was not slow in becoming a favorite with the humbler players like

"My tight's packed in camphor. My gloves hang on the wall. I'm through with the game." "He's through with the game," is the assurance of girls. "And yet my fighting instinct. Will not let me quit at all. It's really a shame." "He says it's a shame," chorus (the girls). "I used to flick a fellow who was nearly twice my size. For I have no defense at all. But I have a pair of beautiful eyes. A pretty girl can knock me out. I hear them counting ten. But when another comes along, I get right up again."

Having confessed these weaknesses, which are after all only human, Georges finds expression for his ambitions in the refrain, as follows: "If I could learn to love. As well as I fight. How I would like to train. On a beautiful night."

PARENTS SUE FOR CUSTODY OF PRODIGY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—UP—An Italian mother sits quietly in "If Ruggiero were just a normal boy," she said, "I'd have him with me. But his mother—"

She is Mrs. Emma Ricci. Her "baby boy," Ruggiero, is the center of a strangely tangled case now being heard in New York and California courts.

"If Ruggiero were just a normal boy," she said, "I'd have him with me. But his mother—"

She rocked her three-weeks old babe in her arms and wept silently. Ruggiero, following his debut in San Francisco and subsequent recitals with the New York Philharmonic orchestra and at the Ann Arbor Music Festival, was nationally acclaimed as one of the world's most promising young violinists.

Thereupon Miss Mary Elizabeth Lackey of Berkeley, the lad's teacher, demanded of the Riccis that they relinquish guardianship of the child for the sake of his musical career.

Frederick Bartlett, Chicago oil operator and philanthropist, entered the picture with an offer to finance the boy's education. He reported to have since expended $1000 a month to "give Ruggiero his chance."

Pietro Ricci, Ruggiero's father and himself a musician, is telling the courts now that he thought the documents presented by Miss Lackey, and which he signed, were in the nature of a will appointing her guardian of the lad in the event of the parents' death.

Miss Lackey, however, has presented the papers to the Alameda county superior court, and the court finds them to be a transfer of guardianship effective upon execution.

Miss Lackey took Ruggiero to New York for a series of concerts. Pietro, enlisting the financial aid of Frederick Bartlett, is in that city suing for a writ of habeas corpus to bring Ruggiero back to California and to the Italian mother who waits in San Bruno.

Pietro charges, in contention of his claim, that Miss Lackey is exploiting his son and has booked him for ten concerts this season in as many weeks.

But hollow-eyed Ruggiero, with black Dutch bands athwart his small forehead, has views of his own. Meeting his father, he shook hands formally and said, suddenly:

"You signed me away. I saw you do it."

"You'd rather stay with Miss Lackey?"

"I think so."

"Don't you miss your brothers?"

He has four more at home. One is being rocked in the arms of the waiting mother.

"No."

Ruggiero bowed coolly and turned away.

In San Bruno, Emma Ricci holds her new-born baby close and waits for the telegram from New York.

Lily Festival To Be Observed In Italy Today

NOLA, Italy, June 21.—UP—The 1400 year-old festival of the lilies, one of the most curious and picturesque of Italy's religious folk-lore traditions, will be celebrated here tomorrow in honor of the town's patron, St. Paulinus, who died in 431 A. D.

A procession of six huge wooden and iron constructions in the shape of enormous flower-decked cones, 7 or 80 feet high, will be carried through the various quarters of the city and assembled in the public square in front of the cathedral.

Each of the six quarters of the town has prepared its "lily" for the fête and there was the usual rivalry to produce the finest and tallest.

While the "lilies," carried by groups of citizens, move through the picturesque streets of the ancient town on their way to the cathedral, they will present the effect of flowery steeples swaying in the wind. The strange top heavy structures tower over the roofs of the smaller houses.

Six masters of the festival belonging to the various trades act as masters of ceremonies. In its original form the festival of the lilies simple staves were covered with lilies. Gradually they grew into more elaborate shapes until they reached their present towering form.

The most picturesque part of the ceremony is the salute which each lily gives to the others, bowing slowly. There is danger of some of the lilies breaking in two during this part of the celebration.

The bishop of Nola concludes the festival by blessing all the lilies and the assembled people.

St. Paulinus, in whose honor the ceremony was instituted was a native of Bordeaux, who settled in Nola in the fifth century.

"Every thirty seconds a person is accidentally injured in the American home." He must certainly have a large doctor's bill.

In the pedestrian's heaven the streets have only one side.

HUDSON RIVER RACES BANNED

ALBANY, N. Y., June 21.—UP—The Hudson river, scene of the steamboat wars and races, which made inland water history, never again will see black smoke belching from funnels as steamboats seek to establish new marks, it has been agreed.

Col. Edward C. Carrington, president of the Hudson River Night Line and Robert Olcott, the head of the Day line, meeting at a waterways conference here recently, declared their steamers will never attempt to set a speed record.

"Boats are too big now for that sort of thing," Carrington said. The Berkshire, flagship of the Night fleet, recently came within half an hour of upsetting the record made by her sister ship, the Adirondack, now out of service, when the trip from New York to Albany, 145 miles, was made in slightly more than seven hours. The Berkshire lost out because she had to heave to in the lower Hudson to await the chief, who was left on the pier at New York City.

Moving Wall Watched By British Savants

LONDON, June 21.—UP—If it moves, the National Physical Laboratory knows it.

The "it" included everything from the Tower of London to Scotland Yard. Recently the lynx-eyed staff discovered that Salt Tower had feet of clay and was moving in the direction of the Thames river.

Likewise the quay wall is moving away from the river bed as if, irritated by the vagaries of the tower, it had resolved to frustrate the attempt to plunge into the river.

Everything, dead or alive, comes under the watchful eyes of the laboratory. The experts made valuable contributions to the designs of the Schneider planes and the R-101 by air tunnel test with models.

They estimated the top speeds the planes and dirigible could make. A test revealed them to be accurate.

Experiments were made with the model of the Rock of Gibraltar to determine the distribution of wind currents in its vicinity. As a result of this test, valuable information was forthcoming to pilots flying in that neighborhood.

Bandits Overlook Valuable Necklace

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.—UP—Two men who posed as inspectors for a gas company, missed a $25,000 diamond brooch and left empty handed after rifling the home of Mrs. K. C. Mugele, wealthy Hollywood resident, last night.

The pair, described as appearing like "father and son," bound and gagged the maid, Mrs. Bessie Warner, 35, before leisurely ransacking the house.

They also failed to find another $25,000 worth of jewelry which was locked in a small safe.

BRITISH WATCH PROHIBITION TRYOUT

LONDON, June 20.—UP—While the United States is discussing prohibition which President Herbert Hoover has termed a "noble experiment," critical eyes are being turned upon one of Great Britain's liquor problems, the "Carlisle experiment."

At the beginning of the World war, it was discovered that Britain needed new munitions works. Hastily a new site was selected and the thriving agricultural town of Carlisle overnight was transformed from a restful, quiet community into frenzied activity.

More than 10,000 common laborers were shipped into the town. The problem of dispensing liquor to these men became acute. Both drunkenness and lawlessness increased.

After it appeared a certainty that the difficulties could not be alleviated under private ownership of saloons, the government assumed control of all licensee houses, immediately shortened the number of hours of operation and the "Carlisle experiment" was underway.

Fifteen years later the results of state control of liquor traffic a plan not much in variance with those recently suggested by the American modificationists as the remedy to the situation precipitated by the prohibition law, are being scrutinized by the Royal Commission of Licensing, which was set up to examine all licensing problems, including whether the Carlisle system should be extended to other parts of England.

Gradually it developed at the commission hearings, the government purchased the breweries, hotels and other places where drink was made or served in Carlisle, with the exception of the social clubs.

The system is administered in this manner: A central council meets once a month and advises changes to Secretary of State. A general manager with offices in Carlisle is responsible for the local administration. He is assisted by a local advisory committee, composed of leading representatives of industry, the bar, merchants and trades unions.

Sir Edgar Sanders, formerly general manager of the district, cited to the commission the following reform measures adopted at Carlisle under state management.

Reduction of the number of licenses; suppression of all liquor licenses held by grocers, abolition of advertisements of intoxicants; limitation of the sale of intoxicants to young persons; appointment in all the board's houses of salaried managers who have no pecuniary interest in the sale of intoxicants and the provision of food taverns.

State control of the liquor traffic has the support of the mayor of Carlisle and a majority of the clergy, evidence revealed.

However, leading dry advocates maintain it is a failure and in no wise could be regarded as a satisfactory step toward temperance.

Lady Horsey told the commission she never had seen as many drunken people in all her life as she saw in Carlisle.

G. B. Wilson, political secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance an organization established in 1853, which corresponds with the anti-saloon league in America likewise sees no benefits derived from the experiment.

"Liquor handled by the state presents an inducement to people to drink it," he told the United Press. "Some of the chairs in the licensee houses in Carlisle have the king's crest on them."

Proponents of the Carlisle experiment say they have reduced drunkenness. Well, drunkenness has been reduced all over England. We feel that the great drop in the drunkenness cases in Carlisle was not through the state control, but came as a direct result of the departure of common laborers and the influx of the construction workers, who are a higher class of men.

Man Ruler Held Rumanian Need As Carol Returns

NEW YORK, June 21.—UP—The return of King Carol to the throne of Rumania is a demonstration of the value which European countries still find in monarchies. Carol's recall was not due to any romantic cause, but originated in the necessity for Rumania to have a stabilized head of the country, above the conflicts of party antagonisms.

Violent differences among Rumanian politicians have threatened to disorganize the nation. There has been no rallying personality at the head of administrative affairs, to give assurances that despite political partisanship, Rumania remained a united country. The nine-year old boy, Michael, elevated to the throne during Carol's exile, has only a kindergarten existence. His mother, Helen, is a Greek, and his grandmother, ex-Queen Marie, is British. Neither has the national confidence of the Rumanians. The regency council established to act in Michael's name, consisted of a judge, a clergyman and Michael's uncle, Prince Nicholas. No mixed regency has any creative power and excites no feeling of loyalty.

Carol, therefore, was invited to come back and accept the crown, so that the nation could have a centralized personality, representing the country as a whole. It does not matter what kind of character Carol has, as long as he has a moderate degree of common sense and does not try to play a dictator's role. What is wanted is not personal government by him, but an adult ruler whose mere presence will act as a deterrent on the politicians, showing them they do not own the country, but are only partisan leaders.

The Rumanian people cannot feel nationally loyal to any premier or his cabinet which holds office only until it is turned out by the opposition. But Carol can hold their loyalty because of his kingship which symbolizes the nation itself, quite apart from political parties.

Had Rumania overthrown the monarchy and established a republic, the country would have been divided, for the monarchic principle is strongly ingrained in a large part of the people. Any president who might have been

LIGHT SPEED WILL BE TESTED

SANTA ANA, June 21.—UP—Five years ago a group of zealous physicists from the University of Chicago came to southern California and began experimenting with the speed of light.

Their objective was the transformation of light rays into yardsticks for science—discovery of a principle whereby light as one of nature's contestants, may be used in measuring great distances.

To carry on their experiments, the physicists needed a test tube. So under the supervision of engineers from the Mount Wilson observatory the largest vacuum tube in the world was constructed. It is one mile long and three feet in diameter.

The laboratory in which this gigantic piece of apparatus was set up is a flat stretched of ground on the Irvine ranch near Santa Ana, where the scientists work without fear of intrusion. The vacuum tube cost $40,000 and was put together in 60-foot sections, sealed at the joints.

Now, after five years of intermittent supervision of the work, Dr. Albert A. Michelson, world famous scientist and head of the department of physics at Chicago University, is returning this summer hoping to complete the tests. Meantime his assistants have worked steadily, co-operating with scientists from Mount Wilson observatory.

chosen would have been a partisan, exciting the opposition or influential groups. Carol, however, as king, will be expected to give no personal support to any party on the ground of political preference. He will accept whatever parliamentary government is in control; but, he will be above all parties, as the representative of the nation. He will not be expected to override parliament; but, his position as monarch will content the people in the knowledge that despite the struggle of politicians for power, Rumania as a nation, endures intact.

CHICAGO PLANE ALOFT 238 HOURS

CHICAGO, June 21.—UP—Soaring in wide circles over Sky Harbor airport, the City of Chicago endurance plane, piloted by John and Kenneth Hunter, continued today in its attempt to establish a new record for non-stop refueling flight.

At 1:40 p. m. the fliers had been aloft 238 hours. The present record is 420 hours, set last July by the St. Louis Robin.

Two other members of the Hunter family, Albert and Walter, are piloting the refueling ship. They reported today the two pilots are in fine spirits and are confident of setting a new record. The motor of the endurance plane, they said, is still running as smoothly as when it first took off from the airport nearly ten days ago.

The Hunters come from Sparta, Ill., and have been engaged in the flying business for the past five years.

"We're going to break the present record," they signalled to the two brothers who are playing a less glamorous, but no less important part, in the attempt to better the record.

The pair have passed the halfway mark to the record of the St. Louis Robin. Slowly they circle about the airport from which they took off more than ten days ago. They fly over Lake Michigan and then south; returning eventually to hover over the field for a moment, before resuming their course.

Although the Hunters have completed little over half the record run, they have made eight more contacts with their refueling ship than had Jackson and O'Brien during their entire run.

The St. Louis Robin required only 77 contacts to set the record for traveling approximately 25,200 miles. The craft used 3590 gallons of gasoline and 158 gallons of motor oil. They were flying a Curtiss-Robertson monoplane of 170-horsepower.

The "City of Chicago" is a Stinson-Detroit monoplane powered with a Wright motor.
